

Pasta King, Devon & Cheshire UK

Development of Online Learning solution for multi site Health & Safety training

Client brief:

Pasta King started as a family business in the early 1990's based in Newton Abbot, Devon. They have grown to become one of the U.K.'s leading providers of healthy pasta meals to a number of different sectors, notably; education, workplace, healthcare, leisure and events.

They have a sister company almost 250 miles away in Cheshire. Nicky Gill their technical manager contacted Neil Farnworth at Enrich Training and Consultancy with an interest in the provision of health and safety training without the associated high costs of classroom training and the disruption this may sometimes cause to production schedules.

Approach:

Neil had a meeting with Nicky and they discussed access to the web-based solution provided by Enrich Training and Consultancy which has the convenience of a modular approach to health and safety training. This meant that they were able to purchase appropriate modules for the requirements which they had at their Cheshire plant.

The learning management system (LMS) hosted by the Enrich partner provides a very simple method for enrolling learners onto the health and safety modules. Nicky e-mailed over a spreadsheet containing the names of the learners which was quickly uploaded to the learning management system. Each learner was issued with a personal login which meant that they could undertake learning almost immediately.

Outcomes:

Within hours of the purchase order being received Pasta King employees were starting to undertake manual handling courses using the web-based learning management system.

Almost 150 employees have now successfully completed their course module. Nicky is able to enrol additional learners by a quick phone call or email to Enrich to request additional licences. She then has the option to upload new learners herself. This is very convenient when new staff join the company. The facility for enrolling clients may be easily administered by the client as new training requirements are identified.
